THE EVER-POPULAR SHIRT-WAIST

If of Silk or Wool it Fits Better When it is Well Boned

The new shirt-waist flannels are plain and dotted rather than striped and come in delicate pastel shades of blue, gray, tau, white and old rose, as well as green, especially reseda, navy blue, red and brown. They have pearl or gilt buttons, and are made with a very thin pique lining. Stitched bands are fancied on flannel shirt-waists, or the tiniest of tucks and the coat sleeve is preferred.

Silk shirt-waists are a mass of tucks or fine featherbone cording in lengthwise effects, and are made of plain taffeta in dark or very light colors. Hemstitched tucks appear on light shirt-waists, but these are always of one material, which marks the difference between them and the trimmed evening models.

A black taffeta shirt-waist has become the standard for every wardrobe. It should be of soft-finished goods worth at least a dollar a yard and be lined; then it gives satisfactory wear. In tucking a silk shirt-waist use letter A spoolsilk and a loose tension on the machine. A silk or woolen shirt-waist fits very much better if it is boned under each arm, at the back and centre front.—January Ladies' Home Journal.

Colorado has her alfalfa lambs, and now the cattlemen propose to put in a bid for notoriety with cantaloupe beef. Down in the Arkansas valley some stockman experimented upon feeding his cattle with the surplus cantaloupes with wonderful results. The cantaloups is rich in sugar and contains a large per cent of the carbous as well as the nitrogenous properties, but aside from the fattening properties of the fruit it is reported that the melons impart a fine flavor to the beef. One of the enthusiastic stockmen of the valley proposes to experiment next year and thinks that with luck he can build up a fine demand for Colorado cantaloupe beef, for so he proposes to label it when it goes to market. He will try it on the epicures of Chicago and New York and if they like it no restaurant in the county will be considered up to date without cantaloupe beef on the bill of fare.—Denver Stockman.

GOVERNMENT BULLETINS OF VALUE TO MOTHERS.

Many valuable pamphlets which would be of great use to the house mother may be obtained free on application to the Department of Agriculture at Washington. Some of these are The Nutritive Value and Cost of Foods; Sourcing of Milk and other Changes in Milk Products; Meat Composition and Cooking; Milk as Food; Fish as Food; Sugar as Food; Bread and Bread Making; Household Insects, in which much useful information is given as to their extermination. Besides these there are special treatises on Bee Keeping; Mushroom Growing; Poultry Raising; Butter Making; Asparagus Culture, and other subjects interesting to women who live in the country, to be had for the asking.—January Ladies' Home Journal.

If anybody knows herself to be in a false position let her step out of it. If anybody has been unkind or inconsiderate, or self absorbed or morbid, or ungenerous, let her quietly kneel down and tell the Lord that she is penitent and ask His forgiveness and then, in His strength, let her turn over her new leaf. But all this should be done quietly—not with a flourish of trumpets.—Margaret E. Sangster, in the January Ladies' Home Journal.

Every woman will appreciate a little article which makes it possible to remove dirt from her gloves as easily as she would erase the marks of a lead pencil from a sheet of paper. This little convenience is a composition of rubber. It comes in the form of a block, is free from odor, and so small that it can be carried in the pocket. It is also useful for removing soiled spots from woolen or silk garments.—Maria Parlos, in the January Ladies' Home Journal.

Nobody ought to have the blues, girls least of all. And yet girls do suffer from moods of depression, and are miserable because they are misunderstood, or because their lives are vague and indefinite, or because they are hedged in by circumstances, and cannot see their way out. When we are young we do not realize that we cannot force affairs as we choose; this is a lesson which we learn as we grow older. There is great peace in living for a single day as it comes.—January Ladies' Home Journal.

The following novel advertisement appeared in a western daily a short time ago: "If John Shaw, who twenty years ago, deserted his wife and baby, will return, the return, the said baby will lick the stuffing out of him."

THE WAY TO KEEP CIDER.

Cider will keep if it is boiled, reduced at least one third, and then bottled. For a few mustard seeds in the bottle prevent its turning in the cider. The must be fastened with wires, and the bottles be placed in a dark, cool closet.—January Ladies' Home Journal.

IN THE VERY LAP OF LUXURY

Nothing is Too Costly for the Daily Use of American Millionaires.

"In the linen-room of the millionaire's home, each set tied up with beautiful ribbons, are piles of embroidered, lace-bordered pillow-cases, matching sheets also decorated with French needlework half a yard deep," writes M. E. Carter of "Housekeeping in a Million aire's Family," in the January Ladies' Home Journal. "Countless dozens of towels embroidered eighteen inches deep; guest sheets costing two hundred and fifty dollars apiece; immense damask cloths that required special loom building for their weaving. Twenty-four diners can surround a table covered with one of these cloths. There are others smaller with point Venise borders, insertion and monograms, too costly for one to guess the price. The bath towels are worthy of mention, so luxurious are they in texture and size, and sometimes exquisite in color. They seem too beautiful for the bathroom until you visit the latter. Mexican onyx trimmings, with silver or gold mountings; bathtubs sculptured out of solid blocks of spotless marble. Axminster rugs which are laid on the floors harmonize perfectly with the contents of the linen-room. Eye hath not seen, nor hath it entered into the heart of man to conceive, anything too delicate or too costly for the daily use of our American millionaires. Any of their bedrooms that you survey will represent a private fortune in its furnishings."

The man who reads the "Twice-a-Week" Republic knows all about affairs political, domestic and foreign events; is posted about the markets and commercial matters generally.

The woman who reads the "Twice a Week" Republic gathers a bit of valuable information about household affairs and late fashions and finds recreation in the bright stories that come under both the headings of fact and fiction. There is gossip about new books and a dozen other topics of especial interest to the wide-awake man and woman.
